Many scholars believe that Psalm 21 was composed as a testimony to what God did in His response to Psalm 20. Read both Psalms together. In what ways does Psalm 21 seem like a response? How are these same themes reflected in our hearts?

In what ways has "trouble found you?" Journal about those times and how you have seen God's presence and purpose in the midst of those troubles.

Who do you know who might be going through difficult times right now? What can you do to remind them of God's character in a way that would be encouraging to them?
